

The following is a portion of an excellent editorial in the Natchez Courier, which we copy for the benefit of our fellow-citizens, who meet on the Fourth of July, for celebrating that anniversary:

The Board of Managers of the Washington National Monument Society have adopted a resolution requesting the people of the United States, either individually or associations, to take up collections throughout the Union, on the approaching anniversary of American Independence, in aid of the great National Monument, now being erected at the metropolis, and have requested the press to urge the subject on public attention. What nobler manner of celebrating the day than co-operating in this work! What more appropriate exercise than throwing in aid to build high that monument, which, while it cannot consecrate the memory of the Father of his Country, (for that is done already in a volume whose pages are more enduring than marble or brass,) will yet serve to illustrate national gratitude, arouse national pride and patriotism! Let the suggestion then pass round. Wherever our citizens are gathered on that day, let their numbers few or many, let some evidence be given, be the amount trifling or large, of our willingness to assist in the erection of the proposed edifice. Let those individuals and associations, who will not be probably called upon to contribute their means to the festivities and displays which ordinarily mark the day, realize their obligation to devote an equal amount to the purposes now urged, and the immediate completion of the National Monument will be no longer a problem.

While on this subject it cannot be amiss, and it may serve as an incentive to individual effort and generosity, to quote the words of Robert C. Winthrop, and to ask for them the attention their truth and eloquence demands:

"Let the column which we are about to construct, be at once a pledge and an emblem of perpetual union! Let the foundations be laid, let the superstructure be built up and cemented, let each stone be raised and riveted in a spirit of national brotherhood! And may the earliest ray of the rising sun—till that sun shall set to rise no more—draw forth from it daily, as from the fabled statue of antiquity, a strain of national harmony, which shall strike a responsive chord in every heart throughout the Republic!"

"Proceed then, fellow-citizens, with the work for which you have assembled! Lay the corner stone of a monument which shall adequately bespeak the gratitude of the whole American people to the illustrious Father of his Country! Build it to the skies; you cannot outreach the loftiness of his principles! Found it upon the massive and eternal rocks: you cannot make it more enduring than his fame! Construct it of the peerless Parian marble: you cannot make it purer than his life! Exhaust upon it the rules and principles of ancient and modern art, you cannot make it more proportionate than his character!"

"Let us, fellow-citizens, fulfill further obligations of our trust, by contributing to erect a monument to Washington, not alone as a tribute to worth so exalted, but as a means of promoting patriotism."

"The Trajan column at Rome was dedicated to the Emperor Trajan by the Roman Senate, and belongs to the third class. It is the masterpiece of all the masters of antiquity—the most beautiful of all the remains of ancient architectural genius."

"The National Washington Monument, to the erection of which this day invoke your aid, will surpass them all, in the greatness which it is intended to commemorate, and in the magnificence of its structure. It is now being reared, and twenty-six feet of basement has been furnished. It is to be constructed of granite, encased in marble, and the shaft alone is to be 500 feet high—a little higher than the highest of the eternal pyramids. It will be the most illustrious single column ever prompted by the gratitude, or built by the art of man. Its foundation is the affection of a nation, and its altitude will but faintly symbolize the towering elevation of that character, which, without its aid, will be immortal. It will be the involuntary tribute of a great people to their great deliverer—freedom's offering to freedom's greatest champion."

"It will stand in the midst of the Capital of the Union, on the banks of the Potomac. It will preside, a cenotaph, over the ashes which sleep at Mount Vernon. It will overshadow the Halls of Congress and inspire its deliberations. It will express the gratitude of the nation—rebuke the degeneracy of all coming times—and impersonate the renown of Washington. It will arise, peerless, as his name, to greet the civilization of the Eastern World, and to herald the progress of the Western Empire."

THE KNICKERBOCKER MAGAZINE.
EDITED BY LEWIS GAYLORD CLARKE.

This is pronounced, by the press of America and England, 'the best Magazine in America.' It has now completed its thirty-fourth volume, and in its list of upward of a hundred contributors, are found the names of every distinguished writer, male and female, in America, with several equally prominent of Great Britain, Turkey, Sweden, etc. A new volume will commence with the first day of January, 1850.—The following notices of the KNICKERBOCKER are from the American and English press, to which might be added hundreds of others.

The last Knickerbocker is exceedingly good. Some of the articles are worthy of BLACKWOOD's palmist days. The Editor's table is in Mr. Clark's happiest vein; varied and racy in a remarkable degree.—N. Y. Commercial Ad.

The Knickerbocker seems to increase in attraction as it advances in age. It exhibits a monthly variety of contributions unsurpassed in number or ability.—Nat. Intelligencer.

The Knickerbocker is one of the most valuable Magazines of the day, and outstrips all competition in the higher walks of literature. Albany Argus.

The Knickerbocker Magazine is now beyond a question the magazine of the country. Whoever wishes his money's worth, and something over, let him subscribe now to 'Old Knick,' and our word for it, the Editor's Table alone will amply satisfy his expectations. It is not a periodical to be lightly glanced over and thrown by, but it forms a library book to save and re-read. A set of the Knickerbocker, bound up in volumes, on the shelves of one of our popular libraries, is more consulted (so the librarian has often told us) than any other similar work.—Boston Daily Transcript.

THE LONDON EXAMINER.—This very clever Magazine is the pleasantest periodical in the United States. Its articles, which are numerous and short, various and interesting, are well worthy of imitation by our Magazines on this side of the Atlantic.

LONDON MORNING CHRONICLE.—Judging from the numbers before us, we are inclined to consider this the best of all the American literary periodicals. Its contents are highly interesting, instructive and amusing?

Reduction in price to Clubs.
The publisher has determined to do every thing in his power to bring the Knickerbocker within the means of all, and invites the attention of those who feel an interest in circulating the best American literature, to the following terms to clubs, viz:

For 5 copies to one address, $20 09
" 10 " " " 35 00
" 20 " " " 60 00

Post Masters throughout the United States are invited and requested to act as agents. To all those who may interest themselves in getting up clubs, we will send a copy free so long as they keep up, and remit regularly the yearly payment.

The publisher desires to avail himself of this opportunity to thank those who have manifested their unabated interest in the Knickerbocker, by sending subscribers. Quite a number have done so, and no doubt with a very slight effort on the part of some friends, our list might be doubled. As a further inducement for this effort on the part of our patrons, we wish to say, that no pains or expense will be spared to enhance the value of the work, and our pages will prove that our readers will receive at least as large a share of benefit from our increased means as we could expect otherwise.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE KNICKERBOCKER MAGAZINE.

Enterprising, active agents are wanted in every town and city in the United States, to procure subscribers for the Knickerbocker. To competent, active persons, with satisfactory references, the most liberal terms will be allowed. Apply, post paid, to
